Archaeology and Arts History of the Ancient Near East

Academic Rank: Assistant Professor

Membership:

1.	Friends of Archaeology and Heritage (FoAH) (2008-present)
2.	International Society for Development and Sustainability (ISDS) (19/1/2024 - present)

Qualifications:

1-	PhD in Archaeology and Arts History of the Ancient Near East
2-	Master in Prehistory and Ancient Archaeology Specialization
3-	Bachelor in Archaeology

Professional Objective(s):

1. Preparing and publishing research articles in my field of specialization in peer-reviewed international journals.
2. I will cultivate an enthusiasm for the study of archaeology and history of the Middle East by exposing my own enthusiasm.
3. As an educator, I should reveal the genuine concern about each student so they can feel it and recognize I really do care about what they want to say and what are their demands and future goals.
4. I want my students to learn how to think critically, objectively, and impartially.
5. Students are also empowered to take responsibility for their own learning by working together on research projects and then assessment of their performance.

6. I have to teach the students the research methodology in social sciences and humanities at the tertiary level.
7. I have high anticipations in terms of academic standards; the academic standard of the graduates should be comparable to that of the graduates of the most highly reputed international universities.
8. I will help students meet those standards by encouraging and congratulating them when they understand the material and subsequently raising the level of discourse and research methodology.
